LOS ANGELES, Dec. 31.—Murder, piracy and retribution on the high seas—a stranger-than-fiction story written with the blood of two men—was unfolded to government agents early today by six haggard survivors of a cruise on the schooper yacht Aafje.Dwight L. Faulding, 49, Santa Barbara hotel man and the Aafje's owner, is dead, his bullet-riddled body dumped overboard somewhere off the southern California coast.Jack Morgan, the man accused of his slaying by the federal bureau of investigation, also is dead. Two youths told Chief FBI Agent John Hanson they threw Morgan into the sea after five-terror-stricken days under his mad rule.Death Arrives Early An official statement by Hanson summed up the details of one of the Pacific's strangest sea dramas after hours of questioning the survivors last night. Three were held in technical custody.The ill-fated cruise was marked by death on the very afternoon the Aafje sailed out of San Pedro
Dec. 20, bound for Catalina island
20 miles distant. Aboard, besides Faulding and Morgan, who had chartered the yacht, were Faulding's fiancee, Mrs. Gertrude Turner and her 8-year-old son, Robert;
Mrs. Morgan, an expectant mother;
her nurse, Miss Elsie Barnard; Robert Horne and George Spornak, amateur crewmen.Faulding, at the helm heard a terse order: "Get away from that wheel, I'm taking command here."
It was Morgan, emerging from the shadow of the hatch, Hanson said. Faulding started toward his adversary. Three bullets from a revolver poured into the yacht-man's body.Late that night Morgan forced his terrified companions to drop Faulding's body overboard."Seemed To Go Crazy"
"I don't know what came over Jack," Mrs. Morgan told investigators. "He seemed to go crazy. After he killed Faulding he ran the boat with an iron hand and we were in terror."Morgan, a former houseboy in Los Angeles apartment buildings and hotels, pointed the nose of the 58-foot schooner south. He stayed at the wheel, taking only catnaps.
When he slept he forced his wife to take control.A revolver always ready, he was abusive to the crew. At times some were locked in cabins. They could only guess at Morgan's ultimate purpose, but investigators theorized he had a vision of establishing a colony of some kind in the south Pacific.With the Aafje provisioned for a two-day voyage, Morgan put his companions on rations.Five hundred miles southwest of San Pedro, and five days after departure, Horne and Spornak seized an opportunity to attack Morgan."Horne and Spornak were working near the wheel of the yacht," Hanson said they told him.Hit Morgan Over Head

Probe Yacht Death Mystery

The Yacht Aafje

Police faced a new mystery
when the pleasure yacht Aafje was found in the Pacific ocean 150 miles out from San Pedro,
Cal., with her skipper, Dwight Faulding, found shot to death and six passengers on board near starvation. A large "SOS" painted on a sail was sighted by a navy plane, and the vessel was being towed to San Pedro by a coast guard cutter. On the boat with Faulding's body were three women, two men and a boy. Upon investigation it was learned the yacht had been chartered by Faulding, wealthy Santa Barbara hotel owner, for a two-day trip around Santa Catalina island,
and provisioned for two days.
The boat, shown at top, left San Pedro on Dec. 20. Faulding appears below.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—Secretary Ickes' contention that a finish fight must take place between America's millions and an asserted plutocracy of "60 families" drew quick rebuttal today from several members of congress.The interior secretary said in a radio address last night that "economic power in this country does not rest in the mass of the people as it must if a democracy is to endure.""The Old Struggle"
"Here in America," he said, "it is the old struggle between the power of money and the power of the Democratic instinct.""In the last few months this irreconcilable conflict, long growing in our history, has come into the open as never before, has taken a form and intensity which makes it clear that it must be fought through to a finish—until plutocracy or democracy, until America's 60 families or America's 120,000,000 people—win."Some legislators expressed agreement with Ickes' views, but others in both major parties, commenting on his speech, called for greater cooperation between government and business.The address followed two denun-ciations of "big business" by Robert H. Jackson, head of the justice department's anti-trust division, who with Ickes was a guest on President Roosevelt's recent fishing trip off the Florida coast.These addresses have created widespread speculation over what President Roosevelt would say in his annual message to congress
Monday.One cabinet member, after a White House meeting yesterday, said the message—unless changed during the week-end—would be plainly worded but would be more temperate toward business than the Ickes and Jackson speeches.What Will It Mean?
In the background of all speculation over the President's attitude was the current business downspin.

extended into Columbiana county
Thursday by Prosecutor Karl Stouffer.At the request of the attorney-general, Stouffer is questioning approximately 25 paroled state penitentiary and reformatory inmates residing in the county. Summoned to the prosecutor's office by letter the paroled men are being quizzed on the reasons for their release.The investigation is being conducted to determine if corrupt practices were involved in any of the pardons granted. Questioning of seven former inmates today will complete the inquiry as far as this county is concerned.While Stouffer has not made his findings public, it is believed no illegalities will be discovered here.City Workers Entertain With morning by Sheriff Harry L. Gosney

first, notified the sheriff's office because the holdup took place in Columbiana county.The youths, both apparently for-drinking their beers and ordered Ward to hand over his money.

Thirteen customers in the place

COLUMBUS, Dec. 31.—Francis W.
Poulson of Cleveland, state Democratic chairman, was subpoenaed today to appear Monday before a special senate committee seeking evidence of "legalized graft" in state departments.Poulson, served with the summons in the Desher Wallick hotel, was instructed to be prepared to present a record of his earnings and income from Jan. 2, 1935, when Gov.
Martin L. Davey took office, until Dec. 1, 1937.

List Developments

The subpoenaing of Poulson followed quickly these developments:
Senate leaders ignored Gov. Martin L. Davey's request for a joint session of the house and senate Monday night to hear his proposal for a separate and sweeping investigation of all state departments.A letter by Vermer E. Metcalf, Re-night radio half hour with a member of the special senate committee in order that its side of the current controversy over the inquiry into state government operations could be presented.Metcalf also telegraphed 14 Ohio radio stations which will carry the executive's half-hour address before the house requesting equal time for a representative of the committee to speak either Monday or Tuesday night.

Of Difficulties of unemployment taxes, except the fact that employers must pay them, is the indefiniteness of their many-sided provisions.So declared Howard G. Slagle, oon meeting of the Salem Kiwanis club yesterday at the Memorial building.Pointing out that with unemployment taxes effective, every salary dollar will be taxed three times, Slagle described the difficulty encountered by employers, bookkeepers, accountants and others in deciphering provisions of the law and obtaining interpretations.He pointed out that one of the most important facts about the unemployment tax is that its return to the man who is unemployed is so small that it is questionable whether the law itself, entailing as it does such a tremendous job for the employer as well as high administrative expense, will ever be found to be justifiable.He asserted that unemployment

PREVIEW

Following the President's message on the state of the union by a few days will be another momentous message. Its subject will be the state of the treasury, which a great many disagreeable hard heads insist really is the only part of the state of the union which amounts to anything in the final analysis.

It is, of course, not known whether Mr. Roosevelt intends to promise a balanced budget this year or not. That is entirely a matter for his own determination. But in view of a certain recent event it seems unlikely he will be able to see a balance in sight.

That certain recent event is the President's revelation that he is concerned over world events and thinks the United States should have more battle-ships and so on. If this isn't preparation for announcing another big deficit and blaming part of it on the heavy overhead of national defense, then this is midsummer's day.

ON NEW YEAR'S DAY

This is purely a surmise, but it's possible what the reading public really wants on New Year's day, if it wants anything at all, is fewer proposals for saving its individual and collective soul.

That sort of thing is well taken care of in the days before New Year's day anyway. The discouraging truth is that it isn't because ideas for improvement are lacking that improvement so frequently seems to be tardy in arriving.

On the contrary, it's because receptivity is lacking, and probably the best way to fix that is to take the rest cure. Perhaps by proposing that the world not worry about war, unemployment, distribution, politics, its golf game and What's Going To Become Of Us All If This Sort Of Thing Isn't Stopped Soon—by proposing a complete vacation for one day, that is—this column can come closer to hitting the right idea for New Year's day than by attempting to enumerate and discuss such vexing matters.

Chances are that for the next 364 days there will be plenty of opportunities to catch up on all the worrying and resolving left undone today.

NO HARM IN IT

The latest controversy over the Star Spangled Banner isn't going to get anywhere; at least, such controversies never have got anywhere before.

They merely prove how easy it is to work up a lather about something that doesn't exist, save in the imagination.

The objection to the Star Spangled Banner is that it's a war song. That's the objection which started the latest controversy.

But the real objection, now as always, is that the Star Spangled Banner is far and away, and hands down, the toughest piece of music ordinary Americans, who learned about music from Hall, Hall, The Gang's All Here, ever are called on to tackle.

It's a standing bet that no one, except a professional, can hit all the notes in the tune. As for words, they dwindle out soon after "what so proudly we hallded." From there to the end, a series of off-key ta-ta-te-ta-tas is the easiest way out for the unhappy patriot.

America needs a better national anthem. But there's nothing to the slander that the old one's harmful—not unless ta-ta-te-ta-ta sung off-key is harmful.

CASUAL, BUT VERY PLEASANT

New Year's calling, according to well seasoned callers, isn't what it used to be. They mean it's more casual—something you may or may not do, rather than something which must be done.

But they agree it's very pleasant, which explains why this excellent custom which has survived so long will survive much longer. Nearly everything about our times is casual, but it doesn't mean nearly everything is being neglected. It's the current fashion to pretend things aren't ritualistic, even when they are.

Whether the origin of open house was the necessity of being prepared for casual callers who dropped in on New Year's day, or whether the origin of New Year's day visiting was advance assurance that callers would be well received and entertained with appropriate food and drink is a question whose correct answer might prove that open house practices today merely have completed a cycle, from casual through ritualistic, back to casual.

In that case, another period of ritualistic New Year's calling would be about due, and that would be a boon to the more abundant civilized life which should be a subsidiary project in plans for a more abundant life all around.

THE STARS SAY

For Saturday, January 1

This should be a lively and exciting day in both business and personal relations, judging by the lunar and mutual aspects. Important change, removal or travel are probable, with much progress and prosperity in store.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of a year of opportunity for enhancing their prestige and popularity, increasing their fortunes and gaining high objectives in employment, big business as well as in social, romantic and domestic or community importance. It is a time for pushing to the highest of goals, with every forecast of progress and prosperity. A happy new year is assured.

A child born on this day may have more than the proverbial "gold spoon in its mouth." It should have talent, power, efficiency, ambition, with an affectionate, compassionate and friendly nature.

For Sunday, January 2

Sunday's horoscope is a particularly fortunate one for all social, charitable, ecclesiastical and intellectual affairs, with spiritual and cultural aspirations paramount. There will be gifts and good news, merriment and many youthful activities, heightening happiness and community well being.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a generally progressive and prosperous year, with advancement through ambitious and intellectual plans, supported by important persons in mergers, political or diplomatic circles or secret bodies.

A child born on this day may be versatile, capable and brilliant, but subtle. It will be amiable, affectionate and well liked, reaching high honors by its individuality as well as personal popularity.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—Thoughts while strolling: Wonder how a fellow asks for mustache wax without blushing? Jean Muir and a Sealham. Or is it? William Frawley could pass for Postmaster Farley in a fog. Grand name for the old time burlesque programs: Prof. Felix Frankfurter.

Wit and humor department: John Chapman reports Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. as saying she is one of the Oyster Bay, or out of season, Roosevelts. Add guys who don't seem to have any last names: George Randolph Chester, and Ernest Charles. Never saw Ben Riley away from Arrowhead Inn.

Power of suggestion: Earl Benham, who is an early-to-bedder and almost teetotaler, always has a headache on January 1. Senator Bankhead, Tallulah's father, is regarded by screen scouts as the perfect stern and elderly type. Edna St. Vincent Millay sounds like tripping on the head of a polar bear rug.

Memory: That stolen turnip yanked from the farmer's patch on a cold day of the hunting season. Top in illustrating horror tales: Lee Conroy, of the American Weekly. City slickers with country boy names: Bud Kelland, Deke Aylesworth and Clem McCarthy. Voices alike: Barbara Stanwyck and Ginger Rogers.

When Doris Duke Cromwell nails the last shingle on her Hawaiian castle, she might not realize it but it was the boyhood loyalty of many of us grownups to Duke's Mixture that helped make it possible. What Gilbert and Sullivan could do with a ditty about the Whangpoo!

The most astonishing change in feminine behaviorism in the past quarter century is the introduction of smoking in the open air. Many of us who migrated to New York 25 years ago used to drop into the Oak Room of the Ritz at tea time on the off chance of seeing a woman light a cheroot. It was the first stylish spot in town to permit it. For years after that no women ever thought of smoking except indoors. But from theatre lobbies it spread to sidewalk and today at outdoor events ladies are inhaling to their ankles. Smoking while walking along the streets among them does not cause a head to turn any more. The most aggravating phase of the addiction is the "drooper" or "dangler" with a ciggie suspended from the lower lip like a honkey-tonk piano pounder.

Della Fox was first on the distaff side I ever saw smoking a cigaret on the stage. Dressed—or rather to the folk in our town undressed—in tights, she stood puffing in the spotlight as she caroled that one about the moon, the fellow and the summer night in "Wang." It appeared mightily wicked to those of us in the corn country, but a premium went up immediately for Della's cigaret pictures.

After thought: So profound was the impression of Della Fox that even today I recall a verse of her song:

A pretty girl, a summer night,
A moon serenely yellow.
A babbling brook, a shady nook,
A kiss and all is well-o!

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, more than any celebrity of her time, has shown the absurdity of smoked glasses and other tricks to babble by camouflage. At the time when she was one of the most discussed women of the land she shucked all the artifices and went about as the ordinary woman. There was, as might be expected, a slightly annoying press of gawkers at first, but the curiosity was short-lived. Today she goes anywhere without even secret service attendance. Garbo could have achieved the same result and so possibly could Col. Lindbergh, with just a little patience.

TUBERCULOSIS

IN 1903, Einar Holboell, a post-office official in a small Danish town, first suggested the idea of a special Christmas stamp. He proposed its sale to provide for the building of a hospital for children suffering from tuberculosis.

a constant crusade against tuberculosis, the "white plague."

Thousands and thousands of lives have been saved through the sale of these stamps. The funds have made possible the construction of the noble work of this worthy society. As far as the National Tuberculosis association is concerned, tuberculosis is "public enemy number one" and must be destroyed.

Benefits World

In addition to the active educational programs to keep the public aroused to the constant menace of this disease, these funds have provided many of the 95,000 hospital beds for the treatment of tuberculosis patients in the United States. The money realized also provides for constant and vigorous medical research. This feature of the work benefits the whole world. It is hoped eventually to solve the puzzling problems of tuberculosis.

This year's campaign, the thirty-first annual Christmas seal sale, will be most active just before Christmas. As I see it, it is our duty to purchase as many of these seals as our circumstances will permit. We should use them on our mail, as well as for sealing all those mysterious Christmas gifts. The "Town Crier Christmas seal" gives evidence of our interest in this great health problem, and indicates our eagerness to help our fellow citizens.

Still a Menace

There is a widespread, but unfortunately erroneous, belief that tuberculosis is no longer a serious menace to society. As a matter of fact, more than three and one-half million men, women and children died from tuberculosis in the United States during the last 30 years. I do not happen to have the figures for Canada. If it had not been for our efforts at control, it is probable that additional millions would have died. Unless our efforts continue as vigorously as ever, there will be a flare-up, with the old-time evil results. The economic depression and under-feeding are sure to promote the ravages of the disease.

The National Tuberculosis association is supported mainly by the annual Christmas seal sale. Five per cent of the gross proceeds of all money raised by the seals goes

Ohio Farm Income For '37
Is 10 Per Cent Above '36

BY GORDON C. NIXON

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS—Although grain prices took a nose dive in Ohio in the last three months of 1937, agricultural economists estimated that the farm income for the year was $343,000,000, or 10 per cent more than that in 1936.

Large crops overcame the price drops and farm revenues were bolstered by good prices in the first three-fourths of the year.

The Ohio corn production was 163,000,000 bushels compared to 122,000,000 in 1936, and the production of 46,000,000 bushels of wheat represented a 6,000,000 bushel increase over 1936.

One of the principal developments of the year farm observers said, was a great increase in the use of power machinery, including tractor wheat combines, heretofore used principally in larger western states.

Meat prices held up well throughout the year despite an 18 per cent production increase.

A survey Sept. 1 showed prices of 17 important Ohio farm products greater than the 1926-30 average taken as a normal production period. In this group were wool, hogs, beef cattle, veal, calves, lambs, chickens and milk.

The Ohio State university extension department reported at the end of the year that the 1937 farm product price index was 116 compared to 123 in 1936, based on a 1910-1914 average.

Production of principal crops included (1937 compared to 1936): Oats 35,500,000 and 40,500,000 bushels; hay 3,255,000 and 2,704,000 tons; potatoes 10,000,000 and 14,400,000 bushels; apples 12,636,000 and 3,000,000 bushels.

The January flood caused only slight crop damage despite the millions of dollars of property loss. Adequate rainfall throughout the year made it an ideal growing season.

Farm economists greeted the year 1938 with a forecast of a possible record wheat crop, high spring prices for clover and alfalfa based on short supplies, lower truck produce prices, increased fruit production, keener foreign competition, lower hog prices, a large spring pig crop and decreases in prices for grainfed cattle.

Attesting to good growing conditions in 1937, the Joseph Van Meter farm on the Ross-Pike county boundary produced a stalk of corn 17.3 feet tall, a contender for the tall corn title nationally.

Battle Between Gov. Davey
And "Hatchet Men" Marred
Ohio Legislative Efforts

By H. H. DAUGHERTY

COLUMBUS—Guerrilla warfare between the senate "hatchet men" and Gov. Martin L. Davey kept the 92nd general assembly in a state of uncertainty during its first year's efforts.

The "hatchet men," mostly insurgent Democrats, organized shortly after the regular session started in January and snatched control of the upper chamber from administration supporters.

Under the leadership of Lieut. Gov. Paul P. Yoder, the group adopted "no new taxes" as its slogan and immediately set about successfully blocking administration bills seeking new tax levies, and battled for reduction of state expenses by budget slashes. Passage of a budget bill at the regular session was thwarted.

Fight Continues

The budget fight, carried into a summer special session, finally resulted in demands of "hatchet men" for an investigation of all state department expenditures. Committees were set up for the investigations and appropriations to cover their expenses were provided in the budget. The governor vetoed the appropriations, however, and the attorney general ruled that the committees were without legal authority.

The approved budget brought divergent claims from the "hatchet men" and the governor. The former claimed a saving approximating $9,000,000, but the governor said the saving would be nil. However, at the opening of the second special session in November, the governor asked for almost $3,000,000 in supplemental allowances for various state departments.

The "hatchet men" succeeded this time in launching an inquiry of departmental expenditures.

Strikes Back

With only three days remaining in the year, Governor Davey struck back vigorously with the declaration that he intended to ask the legislature to authorize a broad investigation of "everything and everybody, including some senators." The governor said he would make his proposal before a joint session of the senate and house the first week of the new year.

"I'm going to name some names and tell the sins of the sinners," declared Davey, promising what he termed a "bristling" speech before the joint session.

The fight between the militant Democrats and the governor was reflected in legislative efforts to handle the relief situation. Disagreement over financing methods resulted in expiration of the state relief law in April.

Governor Davey and the "hatchet men" were in agreement at the winter special session, however, on the executive's demand that local subdivisions match state relief funds equally. On the other hand, the house drafted a $15,000,000 program requiring that the subdivisions put up only about $3,250,000.

Change of Attitude

There were some prospects in 1937 neared a close that the senators would display a more friendly attitude toward the house program than had been apparent previously.

The senate was expected to delay final action on the supplemental budget pending developments in investigation squabble.

Among the more important legislation enacted by the assembly during the year was that establishing local claims boards for handling workmen's compensation; prescribing a 50-cent fishing license; limiting the jurisdiction of the justices of the peace; establishing a public school employees retirement system, and authorizing establishment of mental disease clinics.

Members of the 92nd legislature were the first to draw the new salary of $2,000 a year each. For more than a century the salary had been $1,000 a year.

Complete services for the church are as follows:

Sunday school, 9:45; Mark 10:35-45; Charles W. Youtz, superintendent.

"The Christian Gospel of St. Mark is very well called the Gospel of Service. In this record of the life of Jesus, there are told the stories of the wonderful miracles and acts of Jesus. The example of Jesus has never been equaled when service and ministering is concerned. Service can never be placed on a high enough level. Selfishness and self-seeking are too much seen in normal human nature. Even prayer may contain many selfish petitions. The way to overcome the desire for personal advancement is to set about doing something for the benefit of others. Unselfish service is one of the cardinal virtues and the choice fruit of the Christian religion."

Morning worship, 11; sermon: "A Blessed New Year."

"The march of time has signaled the ending of one year and the beginning of a New Year. As in every year of time, there have been bright spots and aspects that have been dark and drear. A happy and blessed New Year is an oft-expressed wish. It may often only refer to material blessings. Life must take into consideration the needs of the physical life. Yet this is not all that there is to life. A blessed New Year must have a concern also about the needs of the soul or spirit. Living must have a place in it for God and His Church. Blessedness of the finest and best type cannot come unless God has an important part in a person's life."

Luther League, 6:30; devotional topic: "Youth in This Modern World"; leader, Viola Myers.

There is no more fitting way of beginning a year than by gathering in God's house and partaking of the Holy Sacrament which He has instituted to give us refreshment and strength. The past with its sin and failures is cancelled. The future dark though it be, cannot terrify. Come to God's house on the first Sunday of the New Year.

Saturday morning, January 1, at 10:30 o'clock German service with Holy Communion.

Happy New Year

Too many assume it will be a happy new year if it just happens to be so. As if happiness were merely a matter of chance. As if the new year bearing a cornucopia filled with good things poured the whole contents into our laps—then the year should be happy. Such a conception is at best a purile.

Happy the year will be under all external conditions if we have within us the capacity to achieve happiness. Unforeseen sorrows and calamity may come—but do we have the measure of faith in God and in His overruling providence to triumph in days of apparent defeat. Disappointment and a bitter cup we may have to drink, but do we have the capacity to forgive we would be forgiven. Is there within us sufficient light to outshine any darkness gathering without? Happiness is not an accident it is an achievement by the power of the Christ dwelling within.

Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years will be held at 9:30. The regular mid-week service will be held at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the church.

The Golden Text is: "Thy way, O God, is in the sanctuary: who is so great a God as our God?" (Psalms 77:13).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Do not err, my beloved brethren.... Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning" (James 1: 16, 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "As God Himself is good and is Spirit, goodness and spirituality must be immortal. Their opposites, evil and matter, are mortal error, and error has no creator. If goodness and spirituality are real, evil and materiality are unreal and cannot be the outcome of an infinite God, good" (p. 277).

TAX RECEIPTS NEAR MILLION

Personal Collections In Last Half Total $122,192.35

LISBON, Dec. 31.—Personal tax collections in this county for the last half of the year totaled $122,192.35, County Treasurer Olen Dawson announced Thursday.

This figure, together with real estate tax payments for the same period brings the aggregate collections for the last half of the year to nearly a million dollars. General property payments totaled $875,773.45.

Although real estate collections exceeded 1936 payments by $112,343.96, Dawson states the differential would have been still more impressive but for the operation of the Whittemore act. Under the provisions of this law, which expired Dec. 10, delinquent property owners extended payments of their arrearage over a ten year period.

Approximately 1,200 property owners in the county are holding six-year plans Dawson says. All of these were notified several weeks ago of the law enabling them to extend their payments. Of this number 875 are delinquent. The majority of them took advantage of it, the records show.

Conversion of the old six-installment payments to conform with the amended law delayed present collections, according to the office. The December tax collections, Dawson states, will be undertaken after the first of the year with the exact date to be announced later.

Dawson succeeded George Boice as county treasurer in September.

Sales Tax Report For 6 Months Due

Sales tax reports for the period beginning July 1, 1937, and ending Dec. 31, 1937, must be filed on or before Jan. 15, 1938. It was announced today by Lewis Gray, district manager for this area.

Gray stated that sales tax examiners will be stationed as follows: Salem, Metzger hotel, Jan. 4, 5 and 6; Leetonia, city hall, Jan. 7, Lisbon, county auditor's office, Jan. 11, 12 and 13; Hanoverton, Campbell restaurant, morning of Jan. 14; East Rochester, post office afternoon of Jan. 14; East Palestine, Chamberlin Insurance Agency, Jan. 3 and 4; Columbiana, Keller's hardware, Jan. 5 and 6; Wellsville, city hall, Jan. 7 and 8; East Liverpool, city hall, Jan. 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14.

Examiners will be qualified to assist vendors in making out the six months' report and will answer any questions regarding the report which vendors may have occasion to ask.

Vendors seeking assistance in making out these reports should bring with them records showing receipts for sales for the past six months, the amount of the exempt sales, inventories of prepaid tax receipts on hand at the beginning of business July 1, 1937, the amount of prepaid tax receipts purchased during the period and inventory of stamps on hand at the close of business Dec. 31, 1937.

ROAD PROJECTS ARE REVIEWED

Five Bridges and 8.85 Miles of Improved Highway Constructed

LISBON, Dec. 31 — Activities of the county engineering department during 1937 included the construction of 8.85 miles of improved roads, building of five bridges and the maintenance of 110 miles of county road, 1,600 bridges and 3,000 culverts.

A resume of the year's work provided by County Engineer Robert Wheatley, also includes the modernization of much of the county's road equipment.

With the authorization of the county commissioners, seven labor saving machines were added to equipment already owned by the department. These include a power shovel, two Diesel engine tractors, power grader, air compressor, a ten-ton roller and a five-ton roller.

Road improvements include retreading the Clarkson-Rogers road in Middleton township a distance of 2.25 miles; grading and paving with asphaltic concrete the Calcutta-Smith Ferry road in St. Clair township, 2.9 miles, grading a 30-foot roadway and paving to an 18-foot width with asphaltic concrete the Salem-Guilford State park road a distance of 3.7 miles in Butler and Salem townships.

The largest bridge undertaking completed by the county during the year was the construction of two 43-foot spans over the Little Beaver creek in Elkrun township. Concrete, steel and wood were employed in the erection of this bridge.

Other bridge work included a 24-foot concrete span over the old canal in West township; a 34 foot concrete bridge spanning Beaver creek on the Leetonia-Lisbon road; a concrete, steel and wood bridge over Ball creek in Middleton township and the construction of a bridge in which identical materials were used over Randolph Run at New Salisbury.

The office also renewed floor systems and made major repairs on 12 bridges previously constructed.

ICKES' ATTACK DRAWS RETORTS

Address Brings Quick Rebuttal from Congress
Members

and what it may mean politically to those who support and those who oppose administration recommendations.
Ickes taking a phrase from a book by Ferdinand Lundberg, talked repeatedly of "60 families" who, he said, controlled one-fourth of the country's wealth.
Asserting that the "60 families" had attempted to use the economic recession as a lever to pry concessions from the government, he added:
"To the 120,000,000 people of the United States, they have made the threat that unless they are free to speculate free of regulations to protect the people's money; unless they are free to accumulate through legal tricks by means of corporations without restrictions on their financial or economic power; unless they are once more free to do all these things, then the United States is to have its first general sit-down strike—not of labor, not of the American people—but of the 60 families and of the capital created by the whole American people of which the 60 families have obtained control."

Urges Purge of Business

Ickes urged business to purge its ranks of "its Fords, its Girdlers and its Rands" and mentioned a recent National Labor Relations Board order against Henry Ford.
The board, he said, "charges Henry Ford the beneficent, with what amounts to a refusal to comply with a duly enacted statute."
The speech brought the comment from Senator Logan (D-Ky.), often an ardent Roosevelt supporter, that if the administration is to attack
"big business," it also should turn attention to some labor practices.
"Labor has become just as tyrannical and just as arbitrary as big business," he declared.

FILMS REVEAL STORY OF PANAY

Sensational, Newsreels
Are Booked at Grand Theater

The photographic story of the sinking of the U. S. S. Panay by Japanese bombs—a story of gallantly futile resistance before the Stars and Stripes sank with the stricken warcraft in the slow waters of the Yangtze—will be put before the eyes of Salem moviegoers at the Grand theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Rights to show the exclusive Universal films, made by Newsreel Cameraman Norman Alley, were granted N. L. Walken, manager of the State and Grand theaters, yesterday. Salem will be one of the first cities in the district to show the sensational pictures.

The films show the Panay with her flag floating smartly as she pulls up the Yangtze with a load of American refugees, the Japanese planes which dropped bombs on the U. S. gunboat, seamen jumping to machine guns, bombs bursting in the yellow water, the warcraft sinking and the aftermath of the incident which threatened grave retribution between Washington and Tokyo.

Cameraman Alley risked his life to make the pictures and was forced to hide both his camera and films in mud along the river banks to keep them out of the hands of wandering Japanese patrols. He later returned for the films and brought them back to the United States by boat and China clipper.

gan over the head, crushing his skull, and with the aid of Sperrak, tossed the man overboard.
"They do not know whether he was dead or not."

Hoping to reach the mainland, under sails, conserving fuel for the auxiliary engine in event of a storm, the survivors turned back.
On the morning of Dec. 29 one painted an "SOS" on the mainsail.
The distress signal was sighted by a navy flier from San Diego, who summoned coast guard aid.

Towed by the cutter Perseus, the Aafje, her sails tattered and her decks shipshape, arrived here late yesterday.

Immediately after Horne and Sperrak had admitted their part in Morgan's disappearance, U. S. Attorney Benjamin Harrison announced they would be held for further investigation. Held also as a material witness, Mrs. Morgan explained her part in keeping the others at bay while her husband slept.

"I couldn't help myself. I was in deadly fear of him. When he wanted to lie down for a nap he would hand me the gun and insist that I keep the others under control. I had to obey."

Theater Attractions

High in the list of excellent screen entertainment is "Rosalee" which will show at the State at the midnight performance at 11:45 tonight and continue through Saturday, Sunday and Monday.
The large cast, headed by Nelson
Eddy and Eleanor Powell, includes
Frank Morgan, Edna May Oliver,
Ray Bolger, Iona Massey, Billy
Gilbert, Reginald Owen, Tom
Rutherford, Clay Clement, Virginia
Gray, George Zucco, Oscar O'Shea, Jerry Colonna and Janet Beecher.

New Starring Team

Nelson Eddy, of "Maytime" and other screen triumphs, blends his voice with the tap dancing of Eleanor Powell, of "Born to Dance" and "Broadway Melody" fame, to form a new and striking co-starring team. Frank Morgan repeats his role of the king which he played in the original Broadway production of "Rosalee" as produced by Ziegfeld. His queen is Edna May Oliver. Ray Bolger returns to the screen following his personal hit in
"On Your Toes," to portray Eddy's
West Point pal. Beautiful Iona Massey, Budapest singing sensation, is presented to American audiences for the first time.

Nine new songs are heard in "Rosalee," comprising: "Rosalee," sung by Nelson Eddy; "In the Still of the Night," sung by Eddy;
"Who Knows," sung by Eddy; "To Love or Not to Love," sung by Nelson Eddy and the Cadets; "It's All Over But the Shouting," sung by Eddy and the Cadets; "Spring Love
Is in the Air," sung by Iona Massey; "I've a Strange New Rhythm in My Heart," sung by Eleanor Powell; "Why Should I Care," sung by Frank Morgan, and "Close," an instrumental number.

The story, entirely impossible and fictitious, makes the picture thoroughly good entertainment. Miss Powell, princess of a mythical Balkan kingdom, falls in love with a West Point cadet and football star, played by Eddy.

But her mother forces the king to announce the princess' engagement to a prince of her own country, just after the cadet has flown to her country to ask her to marry him. He returns to America and she follows to explain matters. The king's abdication solves the entire problem and leaves him free to pursue his ventriloquy.

Navy Film Concludes

"Navy Blue and Gold" concludes tonight at the State. Featured in the story of Annapolis are James Stewart, Tom Brown, Robert Young,
Lionel Barrymore, Paul Kelly, Billy
Burke, Florence Rice and others.
Gene Autry, Judith Allen, Smiley
Burnette and Ra Hould are seen in "Boots and Saddles," a western picture which shows at the Grand tonight and Saturday.

Shasteen Quintet Downs Dodgers In Rough Class A Battle

Bowl Teams Hold Final Workouts In Preparation For New Year's Day Contests

SINCLAIRS WIN FOURTH IN ROW TO HOLD FIRST

Trades Class Upsets Columbians In Class B League Game

You can write it down in your record book right now that the Shasteen-Sinclair cagers are going to be mighty tough to beat in the Class A City Basketball league.

The Sinclairs chalked up their fourth straight victory at the Memorial court last night, defeating the defending champion Althouse Dodgers, 32 to 26, in a rough and tumble contest.

It was the Dodgers first setback of the season, the defeat dropping them from a tie for first place into second position. The victory gave the Shasteen cagers sole possession of the league leadership.

The Sinclairs had anything but a set-up in continuing their unbeaten record. The Dodgers made things tough throughout the first quarter and were still out in front, 14 to 13, at halftime. The Sinclairs outscored the Althouse quint, nine points to six, in the third quarter to hold the lead, 22 to 20, at the start of the final frame.

The last quarter decided the outcome of the game with the Sinclairs hoping ten points to the Dodgers six to gain the victory.

Gordy Scullion led the Sinclairs fine offensive, scoring 10 points on four field goals and two fouls. Jeffries was high scorer for the Dodgers with 11 points, made on five field goals and one foul.

Upsets marked the Class B league's three games as the Trades Class whipped the Columbians, Reich's Trojans spanked Krauss' Heels and Demings defeated the Saxons.

The Trades Class became the first team to defeat the Columbians this season by squeezing out a 19 to 17 victory in the best game of the Class B program. The victory enabled the Tradesmen to pull up into a tie with the Columbians for the league lead.

Reich's Trojans turned in their best performance to date in handing the Krauss Heels a 26 to 13 defeat. Whipkey, Thompson and Tilly led the Trojans to the victory.

Bartchy was again the star as Demings turned the tables on the Saxons, 21 to 18. Eleven of the Pumpmakers points were credited to Bartchy.

18 Deaths Reported As Being Due To Football Injuries

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 31.—America's football coaches were told today that the fatality toll this year was the lowest since official records were started in 1931.

Along with the report which listed only 18 deaths due to gridiron injuries, Floyd R. Eastwood, associate professor of physical education at Purdue university, offered a recommendation for closer supervision of play as an aid to a further decrease.

Dr. Eastwood's annual summation of football deaths was made to the National Football Coaches' annual convention, through William S. Langford, secretary of the rules committee.

Significant in the report, aside from the decrease of 42 per cent from the peak of 1931, was the drop of college deaths from 12.1 per cent on each 100,000 exposures in 1931 to no fatalities in 1937.

"This is the first year on record that no college deaths have occurred," said Dr. Eastwood. "The record is most encouraging. The high school record is also improved. Two less deaths occurred in high school this year than in 1936."

While Ohio college cagers scored victories last night over two out-of-state quintets, Forward Nick Frascella of Wooster tallied 14 points against Rider college at Trenton, N. J., to boost his point total for three years to 643.

The All-Sports record book shows that Robert H. Meaney, of Lehigh university, held the previous three-year high total with 632 points.

Frascella looped five field goals and four free throws, but Rider's basketballers nosed out the Ohio contingent by a 41 to 39 score.

Akron university's Zippers clicked smoothly to trounce Penn State, 29 to 19, at Akron. The Zippers enjoyed a 14 to 7 half-time advantage. Center Carl Tsloff set the pace for the victors. He turned in 12 points.

Fenn college, at Cleveland, ended a four-game string of defeats by spanking Lawrence Tech of Detroit, 39 to 31, in a fast contest. The teams were tied at 12-all at the half. Ed Hrdlicka looped 13 units to lead the Fenn machine.

BOWLING RESULTS

Thanks to the Salem Engineering Co., the Salem News keglers held a four-game lead in the Commercial Handicap Bowling league today.

The Engineers knocked off the second-place Sinclairs in two out of three games at the Grate Recreation alleys last night and as a result helped the News to increase its grip on first place.

The Newsles did not roll during league activity last night, having bowled their scheduled match with the Salem Polo club ahead of time.

In addition to the Sinclairs defeat, another upset was turned in when the Ohio Bell took the measure of Berg Bretzels of Leontia in two out of three games.

The Pattern Shop continued to hold first place in the Bliss league at the Masonic temple alleys last night, but in the Electric Furnace league, the Panthers tumbled from first place, giving way to the Bears.

Pin boys from the Grate and Masonic alleys staged another of their "hot" matches Thursday afternoon with the Grate pin setters coming out on top, 1680 to 1559, to remain undefeated.

Abe Gabriel led the Grate boys to their win, hitting 465.

Got Santa's Note

Joseph Mirmak, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., is shown in front of a Christmas tree he bought for his children. In it he found a letter addressed to Santa Claus by two little girls, 4 and 11, of Quarryville, New Brunswick, Canada. Mirmak is holding the letter and the waterproof pouch in which it was wrapped.

Helen Hicks Will Return To Women's Amateur Rank

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—The country's women golfers can start looking around for a sand trap to hide in, for mighty Helen Hicks has decided to return to the amateur fold and go after all the titles in sight.

The Headlett, L. I., star, who turned professional in the summer of 1934 after having won the national women's crown in 1931 and finished second in 1933, has notified President John G. Jackson of the U. S. G. A. that she will apply for reinstatement as an amateur before her period of grace expires.

"I can apply any time before June of 1939, which will be five years since I began playing for money," she explained to The Associated Press.

The fact that she will have to remain "on parole" for three years between the time of her application and the restoration of her amateur status doesn't bother Helen a bit.

"After all, I'm only 26 now and I don't feel like I will reach the absolute top of my game for several more years," she said.

Asked if she had any regrets at having turned pro, or would want other girls against a similar course, Helen said positively not.

"It's been mighty pleasant," she said, "playing golf all over the world and getting paid for it. Playing on so many different courses all the time has sharpened up my game, too, I think. But now I just feel like I want to play in the championships again."

THE GUMPS—FOR WE ARE JOLLY GOOD FELLOWS!

BRINGING UP FATHER

POLLY AND HER PALS

"GIVE HER WINGS" by MARIE BLIZARD

SYNOPSIS

Julie Allerdice, 19-year-old daughter of Professor Allerdice of the Ramsay Preparatory School for Boys, intends to get herself engaged to Dr. Richard Jessup, the most eligible bachelor in her little town of Fayette, N. Y. Tommy Jessup, the doctor's younger brother, adores Julie, but he is still in college and Julie scorns him as a child. Everyone in town had always thought Dick would marry Millicent Dodd, a woman nearer his own age. At a country club dance Julie meets Pete Waddell, barnstorming aviator. He tells her there is a great future in flying for a beautiful girl. A few days later Millicent gives an engagement party for Julie.

The rain began then, spilling leaden drops out of the sky. The beat echoed dully in Millicent's heart as she moved toward the spinet desk where for ten years the box of place cards—silly little cards with a tiny bride and a tiny groom on each—had been put away. Put away for ten years since Dick Jessup had said, "I'm just starting now, Millicent, but when I am out of debt and have something to offer you, you and I . . . well, I'll ask you then."

She wrote rapidly. The names were different from those she had once expected to write on them. Those other names had all been changed—all save Millicent's of her "crowd". The girls of her day were the young matrons of Julie's present day. She wrote: Julie, Grace, Betty, Eleanor, Althea—

At quarter past the hour, she laid down her pen and picked up the cards. She would have to hurry. She had to have a look at the kitchen to see how Martha was coming along with the patty shells. She had to change her frock, telephone the florist about Julie's corsage which had not arrived. Perhaps she'd have time to run down in the car.

"Want any errands run, Millicent?"

"Oh, Tommy! I didn't hear you come in!" she exclaimed gratefully to Tommy Jessup who looked a little shabbier than usual in his wet clothes as he stood in the hall. A river of rain running off his hat brim made a little pool of water on her shining floor. "What brought you here when I need you? Julie's flowers haven't come and . . ."

"Can I talk to you for a few minutes?"

"Of course, you can, Tommy," she answered at once surprised by his voice. "Come along into the living-room. Cigarette?"

Tommy took one from the proffered box, lit it with a slow gesture and sat down gingerly on the edge of a yellow brocade chair.

Millicent smiled at his pose. He was so exactly like the little boy he had been when he was twelve. Just so twelve years before he had sat the day he brought Julie to have her howls soothed by Millicent. Yes, Tommy was still a little boy sitting there on her fine chair. But Julie was a woman. The woman who was going to marry Dick.

"Something wrong?" she asked when Tommy's silence threatened to be lasting.

"Everything," he said tensely, and Millicent saw that she had been wrong. Tommy was no longer a little boy.

"What's 'everything', Tommy?"

"This engagement!" he blurted out. "It's all wrong, Millicent! It's wrong for you and me! It's wrong for Dick . . . and Julie, too!"

Millicent looked at her hands, not trusting herself to speak for a few minutes. Then she said gently:

"Julie is a good child. Tommy, needs someone to look after him."

"It's not fair! It's not fair to any of us, Julie is a romantic little fool! She's cold-blooded, too. She knows that you and Dick . . ." He didn't finish.

"Don't worry about me," she said softly. "That's the way life is, Tommy." She thought if he didn't go soon, she would cry, and she had tried so hard during this last endless week not to cry. "You've never been fair to her, Tommy, from the time you were children."

His face turned to her was angry and questioning.

"When you were little things, you used to bring her here for cookies after you'd made her cry. You protected her from other children but you treated her with contempt because she was a pretty little girl. And when your high-school and college parties came along, you always disappointed her, you never asked her to any of them. That hurt Julie."

"Hurt her?" He laughed harshly. He couldn't tell Millicent he had hurt himself, insulating himself against Julie's possible refusals. He couldn't tell her that pride had kept him from asking Julie to his college parties. He couldn't tell her that an empty purse and a shabby dinner jacket had forced him to be proud. "Julie's going to turn out all right," Millicent was saying. "You can't see her as I do because you are her own age. A girl who has extraordinary beauty and no mother. Tommy, is not to be judged like the rest of us. She has much and also lacks much. It may make her seem hard, but that's only because she is already fighting for something, protecting herself against the disappointments of life without knowing them. You're hard in the same way but I don't suppose you'd thought of that."

"I know her, Millicent," he answered doggedly. "I know her better than anyone else in the world. Well—" he got up and twisted his mouth into a grin—"what about those errands?"

"Will you stop at the florist shop and pick up some flowers for me? And will you stop at Julie's house and pick her up? I told her I'd send Peter over with the car but I have things for him to do."

His glance was a protest. Then his eyes fell before her steadiness—perhaps it was courage—in hers.

"Okay," he said. "It's nearly half past twelve. I shall fetch her at once."

We look ahead to this day. It gives us the opportunity to express our appreciation for your loyal patronage. We are able to join in this mutual expression of friendship and good health . . . and hope that the year to come will be one to remember for the many good things it will bring.
